DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yoho et al (5,582,241).

Yoho et al disclose a heat exchanger having the claimed structure including a plurality of heat transmitting plate members disposed adjacent to each other, including an inner fluid passage member (34) and a tank member (22) integrally formed therein (Fig. 6 and 7), the tank communicating with an inner fluid passage, the plurality of heat transmitting plate members being made of resin material (col. 6, lines 54-60), and the tank having a thickness greater than that of the fluid passage members (see Fig. 7).

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yoho et al (5,582,241) in view of Shimoya et al (6,401,804).

Yoho et al, as discussed above, discloses the claimed structure with the exception of the fluid passages having a trapezoidal-like exterior shape.

Shimoya et al (6,401,804) teach the use of heat exchanger tubes having a trapezoidal-like exterior shape (see Fig. 28). It would have been obvious in view of Shimoya et al to use a trapezoidal exterior shape for the tubes in the heat exchanger of Yoho et al, the motivation being to increase the turbulence of the fluid flow and thus increase heat transfer.

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Fowler, Cesaroni, Sugawara et al, Urch, Lowenstein et al, Naji et al, and Halt et al are cited to show heat exchanger structure.

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Teresa J. Walberg whose telephone number is 571-272-4790. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F 9:00 - 5:30.
